Biographical / Historical Note

The Department of Public Health Professions began as a degree program in medical technology established in 1955. The Division of Allied Health was established in 1969 and at that time offered degrees in medical technology and environmental public health. A degree in health care administration was added in 1976. The medical technology degree was terminated in 1995, and the music therapy degree was moved from the Music Department to the Department of Public Health Professions in 1996. In 2008, the music therapy degree was moved back to the Music Department and the health care administration degree was moved to the College of Business. In 2009, the department administered one major: Environmental Public Health.

As of 2009, the Department of Public Health Professions is situated in the College of Nursing and Health Sciences. It was previously administered by the College of Professional Studies.
