The Bloodborne Pathogens Exposure Control Plan is designed to minimize risks to the University community from exposure to human blood, blood products, and other potentially infectious materials, and to meet regulatory expectations mandated by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA). This plan is an administrative document that outlines how this occupational exposure risk will be controlled using administrative controls, engineering controls, work practice controls, and personal protective equipment.